Ms. Bailey,

B.L.U.F.: A Cease-and-Desist Letter was sent via Certified Mail to you. However, we have a proposed settlement arrangement IRT your episode 2 podcast.

The attached letter has a breakdown of copyright items. However, any photo, video, or recording I, or any employee of Innovative Touch Productions (ITP), creates has a copyright retained by ITP. Other rights are respected, such as likeness and works used in any multimedia project.

BACKGROUND:

ITP's main concern is the similarity to other content already in existence on YouTube, and other platforms such as Patreon. Similarity in name and content can cause other entities to seek legal action in which ITP may be liable for. Below are links to similar entities and/works relating to "The Resilience Project" (TRP):

- https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=V3j6B5qqrp8

SETTLEMENT PROPOSAL:

After viewing a recent TRP video on YouTube, I can see you are heading in the right direction for your business venture to avoid such legal cases. Therefore, as the owner of ITP, I propose TRP to re-release episode 2 with the updated graphic and omission of ITP rights disclaimer in the credits. I still retain the executive producer credit at the end in lieu of a $475.00 payment for recording and editorial services, if agreed to cancel the YouTube copyright appeal and re-release version 2 of episode 2.

Below is the link to view and download version 2 of the podcast:

If this proposal suits your needs, please reply to this email stating so. I will create a memo only after the YouTube appeal is cancelled. You are free to view and download version 2 for now.

As an additional bonus for your cooperation, I can create IMDb entries for the works you have already created.

For any additional questions or concerns, please contact Guillermo Colon (CC'd) or me.

Warm regards,

Brian Morales
