Heating up yesterday's brew right on the cooktop. It's a little too cold for a real outdoor adventure, at least for now. Maybe I'll feel braver after a cup. 🍵

🪐 WE NEED SPACE 🪐 We're super excited about the new Coffee Club launching later this month, but a little concerned about where we're going to fit all the new pins 😬 Four years of enamel designs has really built up. We went from being able to set up and break down at the kitchen table ourselves, to an operation that takes up multiple rooms of our home. We even hired our first employee last year, which was a HUGE step.

So this weekend, we will be having a "buy one, get three" ... See more to me

Hey Lauren!

Salt:
1300 3c nickel/antique silver soft enamel: $1185
Serial numbers on 300: $90
Glitter on 300: $75
1000 carded & bagged: $275
New backstamp w/ regular Roving house logo + infinity sign (only need to make this once but the one we did before had Vermin's stuff on it): $40

Did you want to do pure white glitter with this or rainbow? The pure white is very subtle, but in soft enamel it does pretty much look like sugar or salt (it's just more texture than sparkle.) Rainbow will of course look like the bubble baths we did.

Snail:
Right now we'd be looking at die cut mold for this because of the spaces between the buildings - let me know if you want to change that to avoid it.
300 5c antique nickel soft enamel die cut + glow: $675
Serial numbers on 300: $90

Glasses:
300 1c nickel soft enamel: $455
Serial numbers on 300: $90

Ship discount: -$50
Grand total: $2925

If all that sounds good I'll get the invoice over :-)

Do you have sizes in mind for these? I'd recommend going big-ish for the snail but the others can handle smaller sizes. I'm attaching a template for the backing card for the salty guys - we have to submit that at the same time as the pin art so send it on over whenever you're ready :-)

Mornings are now a bit brighter for coffee fanatics who love our pins.

Each package of our locally roasted, whole bean coffee comes with an original mystery enamel pin inside, designed especially to make you smile. A new pin is offered every calendar month.

All our blends are freshly roasted in Plymouth, Massachusetts.

Whether you take your cup and your pins on the road, or just enjoy them at the kitchen table while you daydream, we're on a quest to bring you the very best brew for all your adventures, big and small.

Our House Blend is a 50-50 mixture of Brazillian and Columbian beans, sourced from a small group of family farms. With notes of orange zest, molasses, almond, and chocolate, this smooth blend
