Regarding Claimant's Submission of Multiple Statements in Case 24-CCB-0231

I am writing to bring to your attention that the claimant has submitted both a 10-page document titled "Opening Party Statement of Peter Chang" (Case doc. # 81) and a separate 7-page "Witness Statement of Peter Chang" (Case doc. # 82) in case 24-CCB-0231. This appears to be a deliberate attempt to circumvent the 12-page limit for written testimony, effectively inflating the claimant's own testimony across two documents.

In contrast, I have revised and resubmitted my own written testimony (Case doc. # 131) to comply fully with the CCB's 12-page guideline. I would also like to note that in my testimony, I have referenced a number of statements made by the claimant across his submissions. I raise this only to ensure that the claimant does not later attempt to withdraw or alter these statements after they have been cited in my own filing.

Lastly, I acknowledge that a portion of the evidence submitted by the claimant was not disclosed during the discovery phase. While I am not formally disputing this, it is worth noting that the claimant appears to operate outside the agreed-upon procedural standards. I trust the Board will interpret these actions appropriately.

Respectfully,

Dominick Mattiello
