Paul Camarata

From: Paul Camarata
Sent: Monday, November 18, 2024 8:24 AM
To: DFD Productions
Subject: Contractor Agreement

Dear Drew,

As you know I have spoken to you quite a number of times about your volatile interactions with staff, associates, clients and myself, and the complaints we have received.

Because of these problems we are unable to renew your agreement and cannot permit you now to return to the Sunset Sound premises, other than to retrieve your belongings. Please email me or Josh to schedule a time or let us know if you would like us to have your things delivered to you.

Sunset Sound is prepared to continue paying you to the end of the contract term if you are willing to work remotely, and if you immediately provide all log in information and authorizations required to transfer access and control of Sunset Sound's social media no later than Friday, November 22, 2024, and agree to make yourself available to provide whatever information and assistance might be needed in connection with the Zlozower lawsuit.

As for our ongoing projects together, these could also continue to be marketed and sold but the work will need to be done remotely from Sunset Sound. I am willing to consider doing the Jam in the Van concert series, but again this would need to be structured where you are not involved directly on premise and also with as to how your connection with Sunset Sound is characterized to the public and our partners, including in social media.

I am very sorry this had to come to this Drew as you are a creative person and have done some admirable things for Sunset Sound but unfortunately we cannot continue with you here due to the behavior issues we have discussed.

Yours truly.

Paul